Christmas to Be Merriest This Year, With Everybody Giving

St. Nicholas Welcome.

By SELENE ARMSTRONG,
The St. Nicholas Girl.

I know this is true. Santa Claus said so himself, and while he talked the laughter died out of his merry old face, and tears came in the kindly blue eyes which are as bright today as when you were a little boy or a little girl in the Land of Long Ago, wondering to yourselves how he really looked.

This is what he told me the day he brought to Washington from his ice palace at the North Pole a wonderful snowstorm in which he could ride without being seen by either children or grown-ups:

"There are little children in Washington," he said, "who have never known my name. Yes, it is true, my dear, even though you find it so hard to believe."

"They are the children of the alley homes, in which the sun never shines, and where ignorance, and sometimes avarice and cruelty, reign, instead of love and peace, which are the rightful heritage of childhood."

Sadder Boys and Girls.

"Then, there are the children who I sometimes think are even sadder than those who have faith that there is one Santa Claus, the friend of good boys and girls. They try pathetically hard to be good and patient, even when cold and hunger are their portion, for they believe that Santa, with his sleigh and reindeer, will come to every home, however humble, on that wondrous eve, when all the world prepares to rejoice because of the birth of a child. But Christmas Eve and Christmas Day pass by, and these children who have been good, in their childish way, and who have hoped and believed that Santa Claus would come in the sleigh and mystery of the dawn, weep bitterly that the dearest friend of childhood has failed them."

"They are the children whose mothers and fathers, in the fight for existence, for poor food and shelter, cannot provide the dear frivolous dolls and drums, and horns that are the things most real to childhood. Some of these children have no father, and some have no mother; others are motherless; all are pitiful."

"But how can I take care of them, unless the men and women of Washington will help—these same men and women, to whom, as little children, I came in all love and bounty?"

And there was a queer sort of catch in Santa Claus' throat.

But these days in his palace of ice and snow, Santa Claus has a whole day long. The old man's heart is young and his step is light, as never before in the old days.

Will Help Santa Claus.

No longer will the little children of Washington whose mothers and fathers cannot provide for them be unprotected. The Washington Times will play Santa Claus in the humble homes of the city, in some of the hospitals where the little darlings lie so white and still, and perhaps in the orphan asylums over which the mother saints will be watching Christmas morning.

But neither The Times, The St. Nicholas Girl, nor Santa Claus, intend to be selfish with the fun of giving. We ask every man, woman, and child who has a toy, a flower, or a bright silver quarter, a crisp dollar bill, or anything else that can make happy the heart of a child, to send it to The St. Nicholas Girl at the office of The Washington Times.

There will be provided in the Munsey building a store room just as big as Santa Claus' heart, and here gifts and contributions will be received and kept, to be distributed Christmas Day according to Santa Claus' orders.

For every lonely heart in this big city who sits alone in the night, with an empty stocking. For the mother who has lost her child there is another's child to be made glad this Christmas. For every little stocking that has been folded and laid away there hangs another by another chimney corner.

And so, if you are lonely, give, that a common tie may exist between you and these children. If you remember a boy or girl whose prattle is forever silenced, give, that another boy or girl may be made happy for their sake. If you are a crusty old bachelor you owe an even greater debt to the children, so send your offering to the St. Nicholas Girl. And if you are a spinster, remember that the mission of the childless woman is to see that the St. Nicholas Girl has a few of the letters that are coming to The Times office daily by the hundred.

Just Knows Santa.

My Dear Santa Claus: December 2, 1910.
I am a little girl of four years, and like to play with playthings. I have heard of you often and have begun to know who you are. I would like to have you bring me a little doll baby, some nuts, candy, and a toy train. I will love you all the more.
Your true friend,
MYRTLE HEDEN,
1412 Penn. Ave., S. E.
P. S.—Many kisses to you.

Has Been Good.

Dear Santa Claus: December 2, 1910.
I would like to have a big doll with light hair and big blue eyes, a doll carriage and a sled with red paint on it. It is cold at the North Pole. My teacher said so; so I guess it is. Please bring my things. I have been a good girl. From
ETHEL EVANS,
35th and Albemarle.

Has No Papa.

Dear Santa Claus: December 3, 1910.
As I haven't any papa this year to send you any money I hope you won't forget me and will send me a rocking chair and a boy doll. Your friend,
HERBERT WILLIAMS,
507 24 st. n. w.

From a Good Boy.

Dear Santa Claus: Please bring me a hobby-horse, a drum and two drumsticks, a big chu-chu engine, a pair of gloves, and a big horn. From a good little boy.
The Stanhope.
P. S.—Please don't forget candy and nuts.
For Brother, Too.
December 3, 1910.
Dear Santa Claus: Will you please

How The Washington Times Will Help Santa Claus

The Washington Times and its St. Nicholas Girl will this Christmas again play Santa Claus to those unfortunate children of the city who would otherwise spend a joyless holiday.

In the Santa Claus Storeroom of the Munsey Building, office of The Times, will be received any gifts and contributions which the grown-ups wish to make to our toy fund.

Have you any outgrown dolls, sleds, choo-choo trains, or picture books? Then bring them along. Or grow young again by spending an afternoon in purchasing some simple new toys which will delight the hearts of the children who appeal to you daily through The Times.

There will be published in The Times from now until Christmas, letters from the children, and daily stories in which Santa Claus, through his friend, the St. Nicholas Girl, will make his plans known to you. Read them and pass them along.

bring me an infant doll and a pair of kid gloves? My brother Stuart wants a car on a track and a horn and a drum. I hope you are well. From ETHEL WOLFINGER,
521 Twelfth street southeast.

What Brother Wants.

December 2, 1910.
Dear Santa Claus: My little brother wants you to bring him a pair of boots and a sled and magic lantern and a cowboy suit and an alphabet book and a wagon and a wheelbarrow. From
KENNETH ATCHISON,
617 P street northwest.

Don't Forget Goodies.

December 2, 1910.
Dear Santa Claus: I am a little boy seven years old, and I want a bicycle, a checker box and a pair of shoes and stockings. And come and fill my stockings with goodies. Your little friend,
JAMES DOUGLAS,
121 F street northwest.

TEMPERANCE PLANS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Seven Protestant Denominations Will Be Represented At Conference.

Representatives from seven Protestant denominations will be represented at a conference of the National Temperance Federation, to be held next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the assembly hall of the Y. M. C. A.

Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson will address the meeting Friday night. On Saturday night the delegation will be received by President Taft at the White House.

The conference will be closed Sunday night with a public meeting at the Calvary Baptist Church, which will be addressed by Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, and Robert G. Valentine, Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The Friday morning program includes addresses by the Rev. John Veldiey, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, Joshua Levering, of Baltimore, and the Rev. C. F. Wishart, of Pittsburgh. The afternoon program includes addresses by the Rev. J. Spencer Simon, of Hagerstown; the Rev. Harry G. Hill, of New York; the Rev. Dr. J. M. Crocker, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, of Lexington, Ky., and the Rev. Dr. C. H. Mead, of New York.

On Saturday addresses will be made by Dr. L. D. Mason, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Representative Hobson, the Rev. John Mayhew Fulton, Dr. Homer J. Hall, the Rev. T. H. Acheson, of Allegheny, Pa., and Alonzo E. Wilson, of Chicago.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TARGET FOR BULLET

Ball Fired At Lynchburg
Preacher Lodges In Wall
Above His Head.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Dec. 5.—An attempt to kill the Rev. J. M. McAllister, general secretary of the State Anti-Saloon League, has aroused much indignation in this city, and the police are actively engaged in trying to find the perpetrator of the outrage.

The shot was fired yesterday as Dr. McAllister was seated in his study and the bullet lodged in the wall directly above the clergyman's head. Dr. McAllister merely laughed at the incident.

We have established a Repair Department in connection with our Ostrich Feather Department and are prepared to do all sorts of repair work.

Ostrich feathers cleaned, curled and remade. Willow feathers dyed. Bring us your old feathers—we will make them over like new ones and produce results that will surprise you.

To introduce this work we are quoting special prices for a short time.

PASTOR RETRACTS; TENER ENDS SUIT

Pennsylvania Governor-Elect
Satisfied With Preacher's
Explanation.

BLAISVILLE, Pa., Dec. 5.—In view of the fact that the Rev. W. L. Barrett, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of this city, has publicly retracted his statement that Governor-elect John K. Tener had been seen intoxicated at Kittanning, the governor-elect's suit for libel, which was to have come up before the Indiana county grand jury today, has been withdrawn.

The retraction was made in a sermon by the Rev. Mr. Barrett yesterday, in which he told his congregation that his previous statement had been made on information given by the Rev. W. A. Rouleston, of Vandergrift. A letter was read from Dr. Rouleston, in which he said that he had mistaken another man for the governor-elect, and thus he related the incident to the Rev. Mr. Barrett while under this misapprehension.

THREE CENT FARES FOR STRAP HANGERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 5.—The ordinance which provides that persons unable to secure a seat in street cars shall be required to pay a 3-cent fare is gaining in popularity every day, and the prospect at this time is that the ordinance will go through the councils with a safe majority.

As would be expected, the street car interests are fighting it, but public opinion is so strong and such pressure is being brought to bear upon members of council and city political leaders that there seems now to be little doubt but that it will pass.

It can be easily seen that the object of the ordinance is not to 2-privatize the street car company of 2 cents on a fare, but is to force it to furnish sufficient cars to carry the rush crowds going to and returning from work.

The problem is one which San Francisco, like other cities, has to face, but this is the first city to take steps of this character to solve the problem. Strap hangers—those persons who are compelled to stand day after day while riding to and from their places of business—are delighted with the ordinance, and are working for its passage. They do not view it from the point of saving 2 cents on their fare, but they believe, as every one else does, that it will force the company to place more cars in service, and thereby assure them a seat.

Gin For the Kidneys

Gin is one of the oldest known remedies for kidney and bladder troubles, especially when used in the following formula: "Six ounces good pure gin; half ounce fluid extract Buchu; half ounce Muxa compound." Any druggist can supply or mix these ingredients. Shake well each time and take in doses of one to two spoonfuls after meals and at bed time.

This is the most effective remedy known for the quick relief of kidney and bladder disorders. Such symptoms as backache, frequent or highly colored urine, rheumatic pains in the groin ought to have prompt attention to prevent Bright's disease or diabetes.

MASONS PREPARE FOR PAST MASTERS

Alexandria Association Visits
Andrew Jackson Lodge
Tomorrow Night.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU:
ALEXANDRIA, VA., DEC. 5.
Andrew Jackson Lodge of Masons are making preparations for their meeting at the Masonic Temple tomorrow evening, when the Past Masters' Association will pay a fraternal visit.

A largely attended meeting of the Alexandria Sunday School Workers' Association was held at the Bethany Independent Methodist Protestant Church last evening, when the Rev. J. M. Holmes, of the Alexandria Methodist Protestant Church, delivered an address on "How to Study the Bible."

The regular December term of the corporation court will open at the courthouse Monday morning.

A meeting of the Veterans' Friendship Fire Association will be held Wednesday evening for the annual election.

A meeting of the alumnae of St. Mary's Academy will be held at the hall in the academy building this evening when the reorganizing committee will present an interesting play.

The annual memorial services of Alexandria Lodge of Elks were held at their hall, in Prince street, last evening.

Fire yesterday afternoon caused a $500 loss in the stock room of the Corby Bakery. It was caused by the igniting of brooms by heat from a steam pipe.

Confederates to Meet.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—The next annual reunion of United Confederate Veterans will be held at Little Rock, Ark., May 15 to 18. The Confederate Southern Memorial Association will be held at the same time. These announcements were made by Gen. George W. Gordon.

LE BLANC GIRL WINS A SECOND VICTORY

Judge Rules Out Her Statements to the Police.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 5.—Hattie Le Blanc, the seventeen-year-old French girl on trial for the murder of Clarence Glover, won a second big victory today when Judge Bond ruled at the opening of court that the statements she made at the police examination following the death of Glover should not be admitted at the present time.

This decision followed a secret conference between Judge Wait, of the superior court, and Judge Bond, in his decision Judge Bond said:

"With reference to this examination of the defendant, I don't think any of it ought to be admitted now. I don't mean to say that there can not come a time when it can come in some way, but that time is not now."

Plan Special Services
In Catholic Churches

Special devotion services inaugurated on Thursday in all the Catholic churches will close December 8 with the celebration of the feast of the Immaculate Conception. The solemnities of the feast will begin Wednesday at St. Stephen's Church. Elaborate services at St. Aloysius' have been planned by the Jesuits. The novena at St. Paul's will close Thursday with communion at all the masses.

To Give Picture Show
At Gonzaga Hall

Under the management of the Rev. John E. Plutar, S. J., a moving picture show will be given at Gonzaga College hall on December 30, for which reels showing the recent Eucharistic Congress at Montreal and the Pan-American celebration at St. Patrick's Church, Washington, have been secured.

Rehearsals for the three-act comedy to be presented by the Aloysius Club shortly after Christmas, will begin this week. High mass was celebrated yesterday at St. Aloysius' Church at 11 o'clock, with special music by the sanctuary choir.

OBTAINS DIVORCE, THEN WEDS AGAIN

"Single blessedness" has no joys for Carroll M. Riley, a street car conductor, who last week obtained a divorce from his first wife and today was married to a second woman.

Incidentally there is a romance behind the second marriage, although Riley denies that it had its inception before his suit for an absolute divorce was instituted.

The divorce decree was granted last week and promptly the street car conductor obtained a license to marry again. He was married today by the Rev. D. C. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, today received word that he has been awarded one of the Elliott Cresson medals by the Franklin Institute, of Philadelphia, for "distinguished, leading, and directive work in the fields of agricultural and physiological chemistry."

The honor is the highest that can be paid by the old institution.

Dr. Wiley is one of seven scientists and technologists to receive a medal. The others are John Fritz, of Bethlehem, Pa.; John A. Brashar, of Pittsburgh; Edward Weston, of Newark, N. J.; Ernest Rutherford, of Manchester, England; Sir Joseph John Thompson, of Cambridge University, England; and Sir Robert A. Hadfield, of Sheffield, England.
